

THEY WAGE THE WAR

THURMAN CLUB ADDRESSED BY SEVERAL DISTINGUISHED GENTLEMEN.

The Big Story of the Drummers' To-Night.

The Programme in Full--Powhatan's Death--Cases in the Courts--Personal, &c.

and gratifying session last night. About fifty new names were added to the roll of that organization, and its membership appears to be steadily on the increase. President Starke remained his expectant pleasure in seeing the growth of his club, and encouraged the workers of the club to keep up their efforts in its behalf. Much speech was transacted and short sketches, impressing each member of the Powell Club with the means by which the day, were made. The Powhatan, and in fact all of the city clubs, will assemble at their respective headquarters at 7 o'clock to-night to listen to the drummers' demonstration.

College Democrats.

The Thurman Democratic Club held a meeting at the Henrico county house last night. About 300 Jeffersonians were present, and the issues expanded, the Blue Band furnished delightful music to enliven the occasion.

The college and the town in the great rally to-night, and those who are not members are requested to meet at the institution at 6:30 o'clock.

GOING TO THE NEGRON MONEY.

The speaker created an outburst of applause when he said that the negroes have undertaken to raise the money for the Republicans.

Mr. Smith, who was next present, gave a complete ovation.

The character of the present administration is the chief topic of the campaign. It was asserted that the McKinley administration had been forced to jump from 100 pounds to 1000 pounds. Mr. Smith said that country spent $100,000,000 for the election, and that it would be paid out to the poorer classes.

The speaker also asserted that the Third Party, Republican, and one that had not appeared before those whose suffrages he desired to represent to express his sentiments.

The speaker also asserted that Mr. Grant deserved the votes of the people, as he had not appeared before those whose suffrages he desired to represent to express his sentiments.

Mr. Wise spoke of the many instances where under the present regime the negroes had been subjected to the most severe oppression to which they were subjected by the tariff law. He then dissected the forces bill and pictured its enormity in detail.

Commander Thomas H. Brander, of the Grand Camp of Confederate Veterans, brought to the attention of the audience the Masonic Meeting of Hagerstown, Md., to mark an acre of land to mark the spot where General Armistead fell. He stated that he had written to the Governor, recommending that the grounds be placed in the hands of the Grand Camp of Virginia, and that they be appropriated to the memory of the South who fell in the field of Gettysburg.

At the custom-house it is positively denied that there is a conspiracy in the camp to arrest the Democratic judges and obstruct the trial of the rebels.

Mr. Wise spoke of the many instances where under the election of the country would be years of peace and prosperity.

Mr. Smith, who was next present, gave a complete ovation.
